Pacific Hose Company.

This gallant corps of protectors against fire held its regular monthly meeting last night. Two new members were elected. The office of foreman was declared vacant, on account of the departure of C. K. Miller for foreign parts. Mr. J. W. McDonald, assistant foreman, was nominated, but declined to act, whereupon Mr. M. D. Monsarrat was nominated and elected by a unanimous vote, there being about twenty-one members present.

Some speechifying took place on the status of the company, Mr. B. Ordenstein delivering some very inspiriting remarks, that were received by the members with evident appreciation. He was followed by Mr. A. H. Rasemann, who reiterated the injunctions of the previous speaker, that members should respond to every alarm, every notice of meeting, and every order of lower part of the town, and if possible the foreman, and thus make this the was better than usual.
